

Crédit Agricole (ACA FP)

FUNDAMENTAL VIEW <sup>1</sup> As of 29 Feb 2024

- Crédit Agricole's business model enjoys benefits of scale, with a strategy of organic growth and bolt-on acquisitions.
- Italy is an important part of its operations, accounting for around 7% of the loan book, and while asset quality there is weaker than at the group level, its performance has been improving.
- Group asset quality and capital ratios are robust, reflecting a largely low-risk balance sheet - retail and related banking accounts for around 80% of group net profits.

RISKS & CATALYSTS As of 29 Feb 2024

- Crédit Agricole regards Italy as its second domestic market. Asset quality is still weaker than in the rest of the group but has been improving for some time now.
- The group aims to strengthen its already strong positions in specialist finance and asset management via organic growth, partnerships, and bolt-on acquisitions. The group regularly looks for opportunities and it builds stakes in various businesses, which remain areas to monitor. The group tends to only pursue opportunities which generate specific return on investments, return on normalised equity, and the capacity to integrate without any difficulty.
- Retail Banking in France remains under pressure due to higher (deposit) funding costs.
- Group capital ratios remain of comfort for bondholders, with CASA run more tightly, although capital ratios improved there on the first time adoption of IFRS 17.
