

HCA Healthcare (HCA US)

FUNDAMENTAL VIEW ¹

As of 28 May 2025

- HCA's volume metrics and EBITDA margins consistently best industry peers, primarily due to strong operational efficiency and an inpatient/outpatient focus within large, healthy markets.
- HCA's credit metrics have improved in recent years and leverage sits near the low end of management's target net leverage range of 2.75-3.75x.
- HCA benefits from substantial financial flexibility provided by strong FCF generation and easy access to the capital markets. The company also maintains sufficient liquidity with a well-laddered maturity schedule.

RISKS & CATALYSTS

As of 28 May 2025

- We see some risk of choppy operating performance tied to an unwind of acuity and payor mix benefits experienced through COVID.
- HCA guides to FY25 revenue growth of ~5% and adjusted EBITDA growth of ~6%. Management reported an 9% YoY decline in 1Q25 contract labor costs and with expectations of this trend to continue through FY25.
- HCA maintains the flexibility to manage to target leverage levels. Net leverage totaled 3.1x at 1Q25. Management updated its net leverage target to 2.75-3.75x (from 3-4x previously).
- HCA's board recently authorized an additional $10 bn share repurchase program (with a significant portion expected to be completed in FY25).
