

ING Groep (INGA NA)

FUNDAMENTAL VIEW ¹

As of 17 Jun 2025

- ING displays robust and consistent asset quality, good earnings, solid capital ratios and a well-balanced funding profile.
- These attributes are supported by its strong franchise in retail and wholesale banking in the Benelux region, its good geographic diversification, and its focus on low risk residential mortgage lending.
- At the same time, it has sizeable exposures to cyclical industry sectors in its Wholesale Banking division, although these have been reduced in recent years.

RISKS & CATALYSTS

As of 17 Jun 2025

- ING expects 2025 revenues to be broadly the same as in 2024 (€22.6 bn) and targeted a 5-10% increase in fee income. Total expenses are expected to rise to around €12.5-€12.7 bn (excluding incidental items) (FY24: €12.1 bn). ING notes the outlook excludes the previously announced intended sale of its business in Russia. As a reminder, this is expected to negatively impact its P&L by a net €700 mn and reduce its CET1 ratio by 5 bp.
- ING is looking to become more acquisitive, so it remains a candidate for M&A in the coming years.
- ING's CET1 ratio will trend down towards its 12.5% target in the coming years, bringing it more in line with other major peers.
